A Great Humerous and Religious Classic

By Robert O. Adair

This book is a classic. Anyone who has experience with church life should be able to relate to this gentle satire. It follows the life of a man who became a minister in one of the smaller denominations and the trials and idiosyncratic twistings and turnings of his career.

It's about his moments of truth with his ministerial training and the real life situations he encountered. Emboldened to take a pastorate because he thought his training prepared him for every possible eventuality, he found that all the answers aren't printed on page 142 of a textbook. This freewheeling book which pokes fun at some of the foibles of religious life, it, nevertheless has genuine religious insights mixed with humor. We meet an interesting group of divinity students, evangelists, politicians, church members and college presidents, even shrinks, all part of the human pageant or perhaps, in the words of Honore De Balzac, La Comedie Humaine, the human comedy!

All I can say in conclusion is that a funny thing, lots of funny things, did happen on the way to Heaven!
