Clementine joins Ward in London, where she stays at his townhouse for a week. During her stay, she meets an unexpected guest while Ward is at work, and it creates an awkward situation.

Slade confronts Trinity about their situation, and an angry argument breaks out. Slade says he's given Trinity everything he has and marriage is just a meaningless piece of paper. Trinity feels differently, and their argument continues indefinitely. How will they resolve their fight?

Arsen works at the shop until Ryan finally decides he's ready to manage it on his own. Reluctant at first, he eventually takes control and realizes he can handle the business. That leaves one step in his plan. He has to see his daughter and get her back into his life. But will it be so easy?

Cayson and Skye feel tense since Slade and Trinity are dealing with their relationship. They want to help, but they don't know how to intervene.

love love love this

By Julie Kirby

Its been a couple of weeks since my last fix..... I was pleased to get straight on it!

Loved this installment, felt like I was catching up with old friends.

Clementine and Ward, London seems to go well, even meeting Ward's family.

Uh Oh poor Slade and Trinity, they do seem to be in a tough place, I hope they can either move on or work things out. Heartbreaking.

Skye and Carson, although piggy in the middle are really pulling out all the stops in helping their friends with their grief. Its not fair that they are only managing to snatch a few moments together.

Conrad and Beatrice, still not going well! she is upset, I get that but she really is a selfish, self-centered cow, She feels Conrad betrayed her, but she is having a really hard time coming to terms with his decision to see her father. We all knew it would come and bite him in the ass but I didn't think to this extent.

I loved how Mike is being really sympathetic with both his children, when they both need him.

Seems Silke and Pike are doing OK, well until he shares his feelings, I can't help but think their time is limited, don't think Pike helped ease her mind and heart.

Thomas and Rome, come over as a great couple, and it's quite one-sided, I wonder how long Rome can go on pretending, not only to herself but to Thomas too. Great to see Theo's not giving up on having a friendship with his brother.

Arsen really has done a great job, turning his life around, and is doing a grand job. His meeting with Lydia was very one-sided and very cold, and Abby's words blew me away.

Great job.

Nice read

By Zetti

Clementine and Ward, I'll admit at first I was wary about these two but I'm warming up to them, they are not as bad as I initially thought they would be. Ward is slowly growing on me but I still reserve judgment because I feel like he's too good to be true. I hope Clementine doesn't get hurt throughout all this. Ooh meeting the family, that will either end in disaster or it'll be good, I won't tell you which one but let's say it was memorable.

Slade; for a clever guy, you can be really dense sometimes. It is hard to see why after falling and being truly in love with Trinity, why he wouldn't want to progress their relationship naturally and commit to a life with her. I can see both sides of the argument, I truly hope that these two can find a way to be happy with each other. That is my hope, not sure if it'll happen though.

Arsen, he's making strides into being a better person and I love how much he's trying, he's not giving and I'm slowly thinking he will get his happy ending somewhere down the line. He has to or it will all be for nothing; I don't want that to happen. There has to be a positive end goal aka getting Silke back into his life.

Cayson and Skye feel like they can't help Slade or Trinity because they're on the opposite side in terms of knowing what they want, and making sure they stay together and happy. I'm so glad I fell in love with this series, I can't help but get emotionally invested with these characters, there is something special about it. You will get so addicted to these characters, I swear you will.

Who needs sleep when you can read this series!!!!

By Tia V.

Whip out the tissues....

Trinity and Slade call in quits. Trinity doesn't know what she wants. Well..she knows she wants to get married to Slade, but he doesn't. Then she tells him to change his mind after she pressures him to. Once he does change his mind, that's not good enough for her because it's forced..because she forced him!!! Ughhh they annoy me

Silke is not really over Arsen!! Yay! He is finally making it on his own, with his daughter. Bow the only thing left is to get Silke back. That will be interesting.

Clementine is falling for Ward..and falling hard. They are cute together but you know ss about the hit fan like usual.

Thomas and Rome are getting hot and heavy, but something is up and still no answers!!!

This series is a big addiction and i love it
